Amendments All But Kill Gambling Bill

By JOHN R. STARR
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Two crippling amendments were placed on an anti-gambling bill in the Arkansas House Wednesday as support for the measure collapsed under relentless parliamentary pressure.

Ashley County Rep. N. B. Murphy, the author, said he still plans to try to get the bill passed although he had little enthusiasm for the amendments which he contends are designed to kill the measure.

Charges and counter-charges of insincerity flew on the House floor in the highlight of the legislative day. The Senate spent most of its session working on non-controversial legislation.

Mississippi County Rep. L. H. Autry worked the House floor through the day getting pledges and signatures for his bill to oust Winthrop Rockefeller from the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission by reorganizing the agency.

Autry and Walter Day, also of Mississippi County, had said Monday that they would introduce the bill Wednesday. Failure to do so was taken as an indication that they know how the bill stands before placing it in the hopper.

Autry said, however, that the measure definitely would be introduced, but he would not say when.

The House cleared the way for an attempt to amend its version of a bill to increase truck license fees by expunging the record of the vote by which the bill failed to pass.

Rep. Jess Walt of Jefferson County wants to try to boost the fees higher than the bill does, but he apparently has little hope of getting the 51 votes needed to put it back on second reading.

The House passed the Senate version of a companion bill to increase truck weights. This was a formality since the House bill already has cleared the legislature and is on Gov. Orval E. Faubus' desk.

Walt said his amendment would bring in about $1½ million more each year from trucks. Additional revenue from the bill itself is estimated at $300,000.

The Senate passed Bradley County Rep. Bill Wells' bill to establish a free ferry at Morobay on the Ouachita River, but Drew County Rep. Arthur Deckelman said he would try Friday to get the bill.

Deckelman said Wells had promised that the bill would be amended in the Senate to strike a provision making it misconduct.

ARKANSAS — cold wave warn-

FIRST FOR RESEARCH — The first submarine ever built for the Department of the Interior, a 2,000 pound, 12 foot research craft, moves out on its maiden voyage at Tiburon, Calif., operated by technicians Robert Kiwala, left, and James Squires. Officials of the Fish and Wildlife Service plan to use the sub in San Francisco Bay to study fish life. The craft can cruise from two to six knots under water and can remain submerged for 10 hours.

WINDS UP ARGUMENTS — Budget Director Kermit Gordon, left, talks to Rep. Wilbur Mills (D-Ark.), chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee after testifying before the committee. Gordon wound up the Administration's arguments for President Kennedy's proposed tax cuts.

Flu and related infections continued to spread over Arkansas today, with the most notable case diagnosed in Gov. Orval E. Faubus.

Faubus' office said he has a sinus infection and an upper respiratory tract infection. The governor probably won't return to his office for a day or two, and will not attend the dedication of a plant in Searcy today as he had planned.

Suffering with the governor were literally thousands of Arkansians. The Ouachita County Health Department estimated 1,000 cases of flu and respiratory diseases in the county today.

El Dorado and West Memphis reported flu epidemics. Flu patients in Warner Brown Hospital in El Dorado increased to 25 today from five Wednesday.

A cold wave hit the state today, bringing snow, sleet and rain, to add to miseries of the sufferers.

Dr. Warren S. Riley, Union County health officer, estimated between 35 and 40 per cent of the 49,000 people in his county had flu or a respiratory infection. He said most patients were being treated at home.

A serious outbreak of Asian and other types of flu continued in the West Memphis area, where more than 1,000 cases in a population of 20,000 persons have been reported.

West Memphis was the first Arkansas point to report Asian flu Tuesday.

Three schools were closed Wednesday in Helena, where an outbreak of flu and respiratory diseases hit. Dr. L. B. Jones, Phillips County health officer, said he expected the number of cases to increase in the next 10 days.

The State Health Department has predicted the flu would continue to sweep across Arkansas.

Miss Nettie Brogden, a longtime Hope resident, died Thursday at her home. She was a member of St. Mark's Episcopal Church. Survivors include two sisters, Mrs. J. B. Koonce of Hope and Mrs. Laura Hooks of Winter Haven, Fla.

Services will be held at 10 a. m. Saturday at St. Mark's Church. Burial by Herndon-Cornelius service will be in Rose Hill Cemetery.

Gould Moss, 57, died late Wednesday in a Texarkana hospital. Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Bess Cox Moss, Texarkana, two brothers, Hugh H. of Bardonia, Ky., Charles W. Moss of Ashdown, two sisters, Mrs. Grace Chessor of Houston and Mrs. Mary Jean Poole of Dallas.

Services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Friday at Fulton Union Church. Burial by Herndon-Cornelius service will be in Saratoga Cemetery.

Some 76 Senior High students from Hempstead and Nevada counties will take the American College test at Hope High School this weekend, according to Earl Downs, principal of the school.

The following Hempstead men have been mailed orders to report for induction into the Army Forces on March 5. Willie Samuel Pickens, Virgil Lee White, James Willis Carson and Fred Oliver Gillard. At the same time the following will take physical examinations. Winston Lee Langston, Billy Joe Rogers, Shirley Ray Austin, Haskell Wayne McKamie, Chester Lee Graham and Carol Wesley Messer.

Mrs. Ruth Rettig doesn't have a watchdog but she has a cat that is even better. Last night after arriving home from church she reports her Siamese Cat, Py-wackee, suddenly jumped onto the stove and then to the kitchen cabinet where it could look out the window. The cat was growling.

New Medicare Measure Is Offered

By JOHN BARBOUR

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy put his battered plans for health care of the elderly into new wrappings today—part of a $10 billion, five-year plan aimed to better life, income and housing for senior Americans.

But it was bound to be old hat to Congress.

Besides the expected, and once-defeated, proposals for hospital insurance for the aged through Social Security, the President asked again for tax benefits for the elderly, part of his tax message last month.

The hospital insurance plan is expected to cost $5.6 billion for the first four years, the tax benefits $3.9 billion for the first five years.

Thus, in this special message on problems of the aging—the first ever by an American president—the two biggest money items and all but a fraction of the total money package are quite familiar.

But, in addition, the President called for:

More money for low interest loans to build rental housing for elderly persons of moderate income.

New emphasis on building group residences for the elderly where central dining and housekeeping services are available, some nursing care can be provided, but privacy is preserved.

More jobs for those past retirement age who want to work—including a directive to federal agencies to evaluate applicants and employees on the basis of ability, not age.

In all, the President recommended 36 ways to better the lot of senior citizens. But the heart of the program was hospital insurance. Concurrent with the President's message, a new administration bill was to be introduced in Congress.

It was basically the same as a bill stymied by Congress last year. And it did nothing to bend to previous objections of the American Medical Association to any plan financed solely by Social Security.

Nor is there room in the new bill for private or voluntary health insurance plans to get into the picture, except as additional insurance. This he suggested to some degree.

Some degree of Social Security-financed health bill Tuesday.

Last year's administration bill—almost a twin to this year's—died in the hands of the House Ways and Means Committee. An attempt to move it through the Senate as an amendment to a welfare bill was defeated 52 to 48.

The basic change this year is an option in benefits for insured persons. The prime benefits still provide for up to 90 days of paid hospital care after the insured patient has paid the first $20 to $30.

But the new bill allows two options, providing the insured elderly person chooses the option immediately before his 65th birthday. Once made, the choice cannot be changed.

The insured may choose to get 180 days of paid care, after first paying 2½ days himself. Or he may choose to get 45 days of paid care without paying or any part of it. If he makes neither choice, he gets the basic 90-day provision of the bill.

Cuban Based Soviet Planes Fire Rockets at U.S. Shrimp Boat

Take Action Necessary, JFK Orders

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy ordered the armed forces today "To take all necessary action" to prevent a recurrence of Wednesday's rocket attack by Cuba-based MIG planes on an American shrimp boat.

Kennedy's action was announced by the White House, which attributed the attack in the Florida Straits to "Cuban aircraft."

In a second announcement, the White House said the Soviet Union has told this government that several thousand Soviet military personnel will be withdrawn from Cuba by the middle of March.

It said the Soviet personnel being withdrawn had to do with guarding the kinds of weapons which already have been removed from Cuba, as well as some military specialists who have been training Cuban military cadres.

The United States government considers this action by the Soviet government a useful step in reduction of international tensions, the White House statement said.

As for the shrimp boat incident, press secretary Pierre Salinger read newsmen a statement reporting that "a strong protest" against the firing of MIG rockets at the shrimp boat Ala has been sent to Havana via the Swiss government.

"The United States government will expect a full explanation from Cuba," the statement said.

Swiss channels were used to forward the note because the United States does not maintain diplomatic relations with Cuba.

The key sentence in the White House statement read: "Orders have been given to the armed forces to take all necessary action against any repetition of such an attack."

The shrimp boat was not hit by the rockets.

Final Rites for Mrs. Ora Stevens

Mrs. Ora Womack Stevens, 70, died Wednesday at her home here. She was a native of Murfreesboro and had lived here the past four years.

Survivors include her husband, Bob Stevens, three sons, Wilson and Vernon of Hope, Russell of Little Rock; three daughters, Mrs. T. M. Terrell of North Little Rock, Mrs. Delbert Smith of Murfreesboro and Mrs. M. F. Mattison of Dallas, four brothers and two sisters.

Services were to be held today at the Church of Christ at Pleasant Home in Pike County. Burial was to be in Pleasant Home Cemetery.

H. B. Eley, 76, Dies Wednesday

Henry Bynam Eley, 76, died Wednesday at Nashville. He was a retired lumberman and member of New Hope Baptist Church at Belton.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Stella McCaskill Eley of Nashville, daughter, Mrs. Alvis Stokes of Murfreesboro, two brothers, Creth of Nashville and Ira Eley of Altus, Okla., two sisters, Mrs. Mable Sevedge and Mrs. Ethel Wortham of McCaskill.

Services were held at 2:30 p. m. Thursday at the New Hope Baptist Church by the Rev. Mike Carozza. Burial by Latimer Funeral Service was to be in Belton Cemetery.

MIGs Leave on Arrival of U.S. Fighters

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two MIG fighter planes from Cuba fired rockets in a flight over the U.S. shrimp boat in the Florida Straits Wednesday, the Defense Department announced today.

The boat and its two-man crew were not hit, the department said, but the rockets were understood to have come very close to the boat.

The MIGs flew away as U.S. planes approached.

The department said U.S. jet interceptor planes took off when unidentified targets appeared on the Key West radar station screen.

The U.S. planes reported two MIG fighters made rocket firing passes at the shrimp boat, the Ala. A Pentagon spokesman said the U.S. planes saw the rocket firings as they were screaming out across the straits to check on the unidentified targets, which turned out to be the MIGs.

The passes apparently occurred as the MIGs were headed back toward Cuba. A spokesman said he was unable to say whether the MIGs had been frightened off by the approaching U.S. planes.

The department said the incident occurred in international waters 60 nautical miles north of the Cuban mainland and 70 nautical miles east-southeast of Key West.

The MIG fighters left the area of the shrimp boat when contacted by U.S. aircraft dispatched by the Air Defense Command in southern Florida, the Pentagon statement said.

"There was no engagement between the MIGs and the U.S. interceptors who witnessed some of the firings."

A spokesman said the term "contacted" meant visually contacted rather than any radio conversations or physical contact.

He said four MIGs were in the area but that apparently only two were involved in the rocket passes.

Cold Warnings Out for State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cold wave warnings were out for Arkansas today as a result of a cold front which moved into the state Wednesday night.

Strong northerly winds accompanied the very cold air with the front and temperatures dropped 20 degrees within two hours.

Temperatures were expected to continue dropping throughout the state during the day. Snow flurries were expected in the southern and eastern parts of the state.

Afternoon temperatures will range from 15 to 20 in the northern half of the state and around 30 in the south portion.

Skies should clear tonight with winds diminishing, the weather Bureau said. Low temperatures tonight should range from 20 to 25 in the north to 30 to 35 in the south.

Friday skies are again expected to be partly cloudy and the cold will continue.

LITTLE ROCK

SELF-PORTRAIT
CONTINUED

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Many readers are curious to know about me as a human being. Some still imply that I might be the figment of a rewrite man's imagination. Others, like Judy Ciesinski of Bloomfield, Ohio, ask about my hobbies, favorite colors, tastes and daily life. A number of upstate New York readers want to know how I became a columnist, what inspired me to write and if a college education is essential.

When a child, I practically commuted with my mother between New York City where she edited a series of wholesale trade publications, and Colorado, where my grandfather owned and operated gold mines.

Mother was both beautiful and a widow and there was always some lovelorn suitor camping on our doorstep. In all she had 32 proposals of marriage. My Aunt Lue, my grandmother and I kept count. All types and kinds succumbed to Mother's charms, from the young Southerner, a Mr. Adair, who came to the Colorado Rockies seeking gold, to the urbane New Yorker, William L. Douglass, vice-president of the Garfield National Bank.

Between trips West I attended private school in New York. The Hamilton Institute for Girls, but it was the men who tried to make my mother marry them who gave me my early education. They taught me the truth of that line from Shakespeare, "Men have died from time to time and worms eaten them, but not for love."

Mother insisted that I be included in their invitations on the plea that I was too young to be left alone but the real reason was to use me as a buffer if the boys got too fresh.

The more Mother retreated, the more lavish their spending. Nothing but the best restaurants and highest priced theater tickets for her. As a consequence, at the age of seven, I had a high chair at Rector's, called the more important headwaiters by their first names and attended all opening nights—thanks to Mr. Douglass who, in addition to his connection with the Garfield National was unofficial financial adviser to all the leading theatrical people.

Through him we met Flo Ziegfeld, Anna Held, Lillian Russell, David Belasco, the four Cohans—George was one—and the other Broadway stars of that period. But the only one that registered with me was Lillian Russell—because she looked like Mother—golden hair, fair skin, violet blue eyes and pleasing curves.

Mother was an intellectual. Encouraged by her I read all of Dickens, Thackeray, Kipling, Ainsworth and Balzac before I was 12. To a great extent, these writers influenced my tastes; taught me to love history, long to see other countries and, most of all, to care about people, and what they thought, did and said.

Hijacked Ship
Enters Port

By THEODORE A. EDIGER

BELEM, Brazil (AP)—A Venezuelan destroyer appeared off Belem today and asked permission to enter port as a Brazilian warship steamed this way with the nine hijackers of the freighter Anzoategui interned on board.

The Brazilian navy said the destroyer Admiral Clemente had asked to take on supplies and fuel at Belem to escort the freighter back home.

The navy said the hijackers who are aboard the corvette Solimoes, would be flown to the mountain resort of Novo Friburgo, 60 miles northeast of Rio de Janeiro, to await a government decision or whether to grant them political asylum. Venezuela has asked Brazil to extradite them.

Funds Approved

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., announced Wednesday federal funds have been approved for alteration of three floors of the Veterans Administration hospital at Little Rock. Floor space will be expanded by 6,500 square feet, Mills said.

Mother had many talents. When only 18 she sold her first story, a Western, to the Springfield, Mass., Republican.

She painted and played the piano with the same spirit and enthusiasm. From her I learned to love light, gay colors in sophisticated combinations; cerise and lime green; scarlet and shocking pink; Cerulean blue and pale lemon.

One other paintings, a still life done when she was 78, hangs in the hall of our New York apartment. The color scheme is tawny yellow, purple, cerise and almond green.

This inherited love of color led to my studying art in Paris. It was not still-lives nor landscapes, but people which I wanted to paint. I sketched the old men fishing along the banks of the Seine; has-been beauties like the woman who posed for the original Charles Dana Gibson drawings; personalities in the news of the moment—Corinne Griffith, Vionnet, the great dress designer and Kiki, the model, then at the height of her popularity. It was these drawings which got me my first newspaper work.

"We can use them," said Bill Johnston, a feature editor of the New York World, "if you write something to go with them."

Have you a problem? Perhaps Helen Worden Erskine can help you. Write her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

LOUISIANA — Cold wave warning. Cloudy to partly cloudy and much colder this afternoon and tonight. A few showers this afternoon, mainly in the south portion. Hard freeze with lowest 26 to 30 near the coast tonight. Friday partly cloudy and cold with highest 34 to 42.

ARKANSAS—Cold wave warning: cloudy to partly cloudy and much colder today with a few light snow flurries south and east this morning; temperatures falling throughout the day with afternoon readings of 15-20 north and near 30 south; clearing and colder tonight with diminishing winds; low zero to 10 above north, 10-20 south; Friday partly cloudy and continued cold.

EASTERN AND SOUTHERN MISSOURI — Partly cloudy and cold southwest today, mostly sunny elsewhere; high today 12-22 east, low 20s southwest; clear to partly cloudy and continued quite cold tonight; low near zero east, 5-12 above southwest; fair to partly cloudy and not quite so cold Friday.

Five Indicted for Gambling

MARION, Ark. (AP)—The Crittenden County Grand Jury indicted five persons Wednesday, apparently in connection with gambling along West Memphis' Eighth Street Negro section.

The names of those indicted will not be released until all are in custody. The jury did not say what the indictments were for, but it questioned several persons who testified last fall in the Andrew Bass federal gambling trial.

Bass was convicted in federal court of bringing people across state lines to participate in illegal gambling. He is free on bond pending appeal. Bass testified before the grand jury and upon walking out of the jury room was arrested on state gambling charges and freed on $1,000 bond. Bass, 45, Negro of West Memphis, is charged with operating a gambling house.

Ouachita Channel EL DORADO, Ark. (AP)—Col. Warren S. Everett, district engineer for the Army Engineers, told a committee of the Ouachita River Valley Association Wednesday he thought the 9-foot channel on the river from Camden 351 miles south into Louisiana would be completed by December 25, 1963. Everett was to address an association luncheon today.

Amendments

in office for the Highway Commission to refuse to operate the ferry and that this was not done.

Wells said he had not promised to sponsor the amendment, only to support it if it were introduced.

The Senate approved a House bill to transfer the Weights and Standards Division from jurisdiction of the State Police to the Highway Department. This was in the package of truck weight bills. It now is ready for Faubus' signature.

Murphy had resisted efforts to cripple his anti-gambling bill for three straight sessions before the ax fell Wednesday. Murphy wrote it to create a special state police unit to crack down on gambling.

One amendment would give the special unit authority to enforce prostitution, liquor and riot laws, as well as gambling violations, and the other would put the State Police—the entire department, not just the special unit—under the attorney general, instead of the governor.

Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennell, who was in the chamber when the vote was taken, apparently took the proceeding as a joke.

"It looks like I've got me a police force," he quipped. Then he added, seriously, "This legislation is a long way from becoming law."

The amendments were sponsored by Perry County Rep. Paul Van Dalsem who assumed command of opposition forces Monday after Garland County Rep. Nathan Schoenfeld tied up the bill last Thursday and Friday.

Before it approved the two Van Dalsem amendments, the House, at Murphy's urging, had defeated three proposed amendments.

But Murphy's support faded after an amendment to put an appropriation into the bill failed by just two votes. This was a particularly dangerous proposal to Murphy's side, since it would have made the bill need 75 votes to pass.

Van Dalsem said another effort to pass the appropriation amendment would be made later, maybe today. The amendment would provide $75,300 a year in operating funds for the special unit.

Murphy viewed every move by the opposition as part of an effort to kill the bill, which has strong support from the Arkansas Christian Civic Foundation and church groups.

Van Dalsem accused Murphy and his supporters of simply trying to get publicity for themselves with "a bill that hasn't any teeth in it, that is useless without these amendments."

Benton County Rep. Hardy Croxton countered that Van Dalsem was "a master at getting his picture in the paper," and Murphy once interrupted a Van Dalsem speech by shouting, "You aren't telling the truth."

Adoption of the amendments kept the bill itself from coming to vote Wednesday. A new copy of the bill, with amendments, must be on members' desks for 24 hours before a vote can be taken. Adoption of another amendment today could put off a vote until Monday at the earliest.

The Senate passed an administration bill to abolish the Livestock Sanitary Board and replace it with a Livestock and Poultry Commission.

The House passed and sent to the Senate bills to: Transfer authority to dispose of tax-forfeited lands from the state Land Department to county governments and to give proceeds of the sale to the counties, instead of the state.

Create a state park at Jacksonport in Jackson County.

Create a state Board of Veterinary Medicine to regulate veterinarians.

House introductions Thursday included a catch-all liquor bill brought in by the Revenue and Taxation Committee whose chairman, Van Dalsem, said it was designed to cover the best provisions of more than a dozen pending liquor bills.

It would: Permit first and second class cities in dry counties to vote wet. Permit legalization of beer for all premise consumption without legalizing liquor and wine.

Gradually eliminate the so-called roadside honky tonks by prohibiting licensing of new ones and relicensing of any which happen to lose their licenses. The bill would cover beer licenses for establishments outside city limits.

House introductions included: Prairie County Rep. John Bethell's bill to permit issuance of revenue bonds for construction of dormitories and dining halls at state vocational-technical schools.

A bill by Pulaski Rep. Ben Allen and others to base county turnback funds on 1960 population, instead of 1950 figures.

Senate introductions included: A bill by Sens. Max Howell of Little Rock and Tom Allen of Brinkley to create an Arkansas Law Enforcement Training Academy, under State Police, for training of city, county and state officers.

The Senate also passed a bill to abolish the state Confederate Home and require the Welfare Department to care for the five resi-

Fort Myers, Fla., and owned by the Seafood Packing Co. Its crewmen were identified as Paris Jackson and Benjamin Washington.

"When rescued by a destroyer escort, Jackson and Washington reported they had been drifting about three days because of engine failure," the department said.

The Ala left Fort Myers on Feb. 10 and its crew said the engine failed the afternoon of Feb. 17, the Pentagon reported.

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. policy makers held urgent meetings today on a tension-creating new Cuban incident—the firing of rockets by Soviet-built MIG planes in the vicinity of a U.S. shrimp boat in the Florida Straits.

President Kennedy was reported discussing with advisers the possibility of new countermeasures to tighten defense against Communist power based in Cuba.

U.S. fighter aircraft would be given definite orders to destroy any Red planes which endangered the shipping in the Cuban area.

The MIGs-shrimp boat incident occurred Wednesday but was only disclosed by the Pentagon this morning. The Defense Department said two MIGs flew by the shrimp boat, Ala, and fired rockets but did not hit it.

The presence of the MIGs had been detected earlier by radar and U.S. planes from Florida, dispatched to the area, saw the firing.

A Pentagon spokesman said the Ala was in international waters, 60 miles north of the Cuban mainland.

The sudden MIG assault inevitably raised the question in speculation here as to whether the shrimp boat might afford some clue to the mysterious fate of the tanker Marine Sulphur Queen, which vanished Feb. 2 on a voyage between Beaumont, Tex., and Norfolk, Va. The tanker was carrying 15,000 tons of molten sulphur. Wednesday ships searching for the vessel found floats littered Sulphur Queen.

However, a Defense Department spokesman said he was not aware of any evidence that the Sulphur Queen had been attacked.

The reason for the MIG rocket firing on the shrimp boat was not clear but some officials thought it might be related to the fact that U.S. aircraft a few days ago fired rockets across the bow of the Venezuelan freighter, Anzoategui, after it had been seized by a Communist revolutionary group, and while it was being taken to Brazil.

In that case the Venezuelan government had asked the United States for assistance in recovering the vessel and the rockets were fired to try to get the freighter to stop, but it refused to do so.

Whatever the reason, the incident injected fresh tensions into the Cuban situation at a time when they were relaxing somewhat because of a belief here that some Soviet troops, perhaps as many as 8,000, might be leaving the island within days.

This prospect, or hope, was based partly on the arrival in Cuban waters of four empty or lightly loaded Soviet ships.

Both Houses were scheduled to reconvene at noon.

duplicate bills to create a White River Navigation Commission were introduced in both houses.

Faubus signed into law a bill to exempt trucks hauling crushed stone to river construction jobs from eligibility for cheap natural resource license tags.

8000 Reds
Leaving Soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. sources report some Soviet troops—perhaps as many as 8,000—may ship out of Cuba within days. And American officials hope some of the Soviet weapons will be leaving too.

The forecast of the early departure is partly based on the arrival in Cuban waters of four empty or lightly loaded Soviet ships. One already has docked, sources said Wednesday night, and the three others are approaching the island.

The ship movements were disclosed barely a day after word circulated from congressional and diplomatic sources that the Soviet government had promised Monday to withdraw several thousand of its troops from Cuba by March 15.

The soldiers arrived there last fall with the offensive missiles and bombers which set off the Cuban crisis.

Experts estimated the four vessels were of a size that could handle as many as 8,000 men—almost half the 17,000 Soviet military personnel President Kennedy said he believed were still on the island.

But the potential removal of some of the troops could raise a new problem—that of the Soviet weapons on Fidel Castro's island bastion.

Administration officials do not regard the weapons as an offensive threat to the United States. If put in Cuban hands, however, they would give Castro a new capacity to provoke the United States and stir up more troubles.

Causing the most concern are 24 anti-aircraft missile bases capable of shooting down U.S. reconnaissance planes and relatively short range antiship missiles.

These weapons are understood to be still completely within Soviet control.

Administration officials have reported that among the Soviet military personnel on the island are four heavily armed combat battalions of 5,000 men.

If and when the combat units go the expectation is that they will take many, perhaps all, of their arms with them. But no one here rules out the possibility that much of this armament may be added to the arms already supplied to Castro's forces.

In the Senate the Armed Services Committee will ask defense officials for a detailed report on the Cuban situation.

Dr. Manuel de Varona, president of the Cuban Senate from 1950 to 1952 told a House Inter-American Affairs subcommittee Wednesday that there are definitely more than 17,000 Soviet troops in Cuba, perhaps up to 30,000.

Calling for a U.S. invasion "to restore peace to the hemisphere," Dr. Varona said "well informed sources in Vienna" report the Soviets have established secret military bases in the jungles of northwest Brazil and in the mountains of Paraguay.

A spokesman for the Brazilian foreign office said in Rio de Janeiro that Dr. Varona's report was absolutely ridiculous.

Wants Machines
in Place of Men

WASHINGTON (AP)—A citizens advisory group feels the Post Office Department should consider replacing its sales-window clerks with vending machines.

At the same time, the advisory board told Postmaster General J. Edward Day in a report Wednesday, it endorses that Post Office Department policy of trying to assure that "no full-time career employee need fear becoming unemployed because of the introduction of mechanized equipment."

The board endorsed the department's plan to provide advanced specialized training to employees who will work on new equipment.

Loan for Eudora

WASHINGTON (AP) — An interest-free loan of $2,400 to help Eudora, Ark. plan sewerage, water, street and drainage improvements was approved Wednesday by the Community Facilities Administration, Rep. Oren Harris, D-Ark., said. The Post Office Department approved plans to modernize the post office and federal building at McGehee, Ark., but gave no estimate on the cost of the work, Harris reported.

Dr. Manuel de Varona, president of the Cuban Senate from 1950 to 1952 told a House Inter-American Affairs subcommittee Wednesday that there are definitely more than 17,000 Soviet troops in Cuba, perhaps up to 30,000.

DeAnn 4-H Club Meets
The DeAnn 4-H Club met Monday night at the home of Judy and Billy Samuels.

In absence of the president, Bruce Burke called the meeting to order. The secretary read the minutes of the last meeting. The devotionals was given by Billy Samuels and the pledge were given by Tommy and Bobby Hardin. Bruce Burke lead the club in songs.

Jimmy Carver gave the report on the activities discussed at the council meeting. After the meeting the hostess, Judy Samuels, played a piano solo and then served the refreshments to 7 members and 2 leaders. The next meeting will be on March 4.

Bridge Club Meets
Mrs. E. M. McWilliams was a guest of the Tuesday Bridge Club which met with Mrs. Lloyd Spencer on February 19. Permanent flowers in tones of brown and beige, as well as potted greenery, were seen at vantage points.

When the scores were tallied for the two tables of players, Mrs. Spencer was high, and Mrs. Syd McMath was second high.

American Legion Meets
The Leslie Huddleston Post No. 12 of the American Legion Auxiliary met Tuesday, February 19 at the home of Mrs. Olan Pony Reeves with Mrs. Joe Jones and Mrs. R. D. Haynes as co-hostesses. A beautiful floral arrangement of red, white, and blue flowers was in the living room, and the color scheme was further carried out by the use of American flags.

Mrs. Ben Edmiston, chaplain, voiced the opening prayer. The Pledge of Allegiance and the Preamble to the Constitution were repeated in unison. Mrs. Frank King presided over the business meeting, when different committee reports were heard.

Two essays written by high school students were read. Their subject was "Americanism in the Home." Cookie Jones' paper will be entered in state-wide competition. Because the national president of the auxiliary will be in Little Rock March 21 for the annual Rehabilitation Conference, special emphasis was placed on the meeting and a request for unit representation was made. Mrs. Cecil Weaver, Mrs. Charlie Taylor, and Mrs. Thomas Compton were appointed to make plans for the District Spring Conference to be held in Hope.

Mrs. King introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Otis Blackwood of Fulton, who gave a very interesting talk on Communism versus Americanism. It was entitled "Planned Confusion — Who Wants Peace?"

During the refreshment hour cherry tarts and coffee were served to 17 members and Mrs. Blackwood.

Dorcas Sunday School Class Meets
Mrs. James Braden was hostess to the Dorcas Sunday School Class of the Garrett Memorial Baptist Church Monday night, February 18. The meeting was opened with prayer by Mrs. Paul Church. The program consisted of a solo by Miss Darlene Braden, a very inspiring devotional by Mrs. Larkin Bohannon, and a duet by Mrs. Paul Church and Mrs. Jack Watkins. At the conclusion of the program games were played by the group. Pie, coffee, and hot chocolate was served to the members present and three guests.

The Lilac Garden Club Meets
The Lilac Garden Club met in the home of Mrs. Lloyd Kinard February 20 at 2 p.m. with Mrs. Leroy Lasure as Co-Hostess.

The president, Mrs. Guy Downing, called the meeting, opening it with the Club's Creed repeated in unison. Business matters were discussed and reports were given by other officers.

Mrs. B. W. Edwards gave the program "It's always time for roses", and explained the proper way of planting roses.

Exchange of seeds and plants was held, then the twelve members were a delectable dessert plate with coffee by the hostess.

Centerville 4-H Club Meets
The Centerville 4-H Club met at the home of Brenda Underwood February 14. The meeting was called to order by Carolyn Beck, and pledges were read by Calvin Underwood. Minutes were read and the roll called by Brenda. The devotionals was given by Lannon Ray. Miss Linda Ray gave a demonstration. How to raise money for the club fund, was discussed by the club.

A Valentine party was held after the meeting with games lead by Barbara Pericy, Cocoa and cookies were served by the hostess to twelve members, four parents, and four visitors, Mrs. Duncan, her two daughters and Tommy Skill.

Births
Mr. and Mrs. Bob Wood of Oklahoma City, Okla. announce the arrival of a 7 lb., 11 oz. boy on February 15. He has been named Paul David. Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Chism of Hope are the maternal grandparents.

Coming and Going
Mrs. L. F. Higginson was a recent visitor in Shreveport with the Luther Higginson, Jr. family.

Mr. and Mrs. Fielding Huddleston and family, Naples, Tex., were the weekend guests of Mrs. Jewel Moore and Mr. and Mrs. Benton Huddleston.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Robins visited their daughter, Judy, in Crossett, on Sunday.

Arkansas Buildings
WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Public Works Subcommittee Wednesday approved construction of public buildings at McCrory, Marshall and Mountain Home, Ark. at a total cost of $589,000. The construction is proposed by the General Services Administration as part of a total project of 86 buildings costing $20,543,000. The Mountain Home building will cost $296,700, the one at Marshall, $283,600 and at McCrory, $153,000. Each will be a combination post office and federal building.

Forged Checks With His Feet

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP) — An 18-year-old Negro high school student with deformed arms was to be charged today with forging checks with his feet, deputy prosecutor Bill Davis said.

Willie Ramey, the Negro, was arrested along with Clotis Andrews, 24, also Negro, Wednesday after an investigation into a series of forged checks totalling about $100, Police Sgt. Joe Curtis said.

Davis said Ramey would be charged with forgery and Andrews with forgery and passing the checks. A liquor store operator identified him as the man who passed a forged check. Curtis said.

Ramey's arms have been deformed since birth. He was attending a Negro high school.

Curtis said Ramey placed a pen between the big toe and first toe of his left foot to write.

Ship for Cuba Being Loaded

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Longshoremen start loading 2,600 tons of medicine and food for the banana boat Priamos tonight for shipment to Cuba as ransom for released prisoners.

The Red Cross said the cargo, valued at $1.5 million, will complete the first half of the $53 million worth of goods promised Fidel Castro for the 1,113 Bay of Pigs prisoners already returned.

The Standard Fruit & Steamship Line's Priamos will sail Saturday on the 30-hour voyage to Havana, officials said.

North Texas to Get Crack at Bearcats

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Cincinnati Bearcats, with one string ended, will try to keep another, more important streak going tonight against North Texas State.

The Bearcats' 37-game winning string came to an abrupt, painful halt in Wichita Saturday but their quest of an unprecedented third straight NCAA title is still very, very alive.

They could take a major step in that quest by beating North Texas tonight, which would secure Cincinnati its sixth straight Missouri Valley Conference title and a spot in the NCAA regionals, first step on the long road to the championships.

The Bearcats, still ranked first in the nation, take a 19-1 mark into the game while North Texas, at 10-11, is enjoying its best season since joining the league in 1957. Cincinnati won a previous meeting 75-58 at North Texas earlier this season.

Another important game sends Notre Dame against 10th ranked New York University, already named for an NCAA open berth at Madison Square Garden. NYU has won nine in a row and is 13-2 over-all.

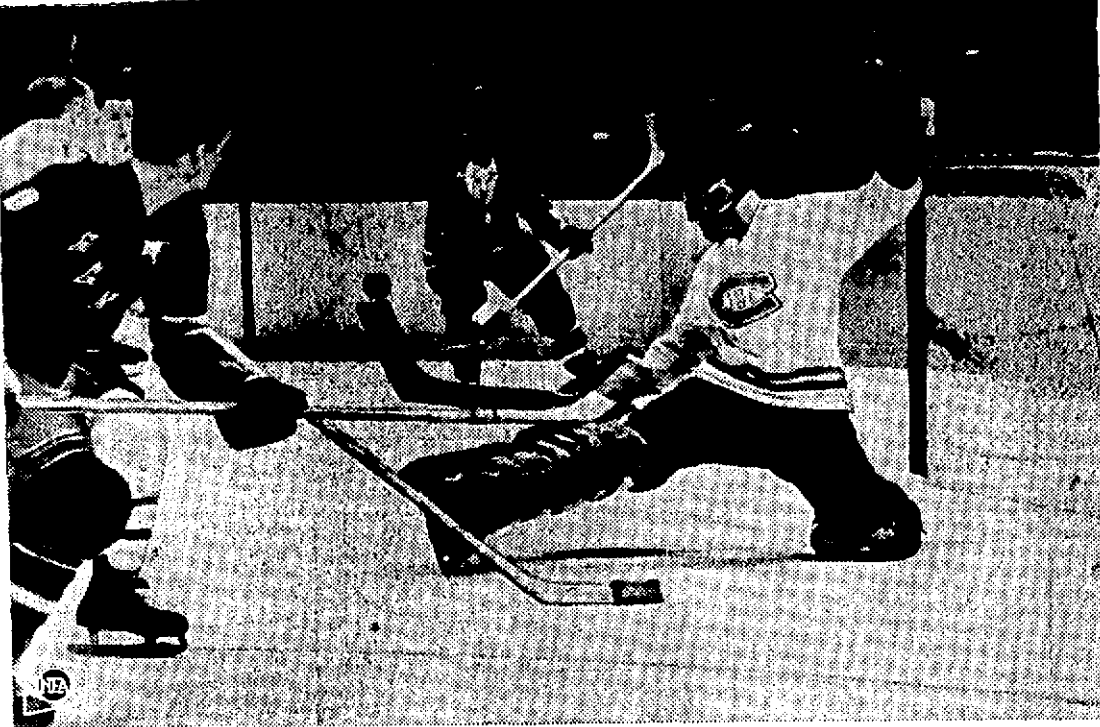

Penn State and Pittsburgh, vying for an NCAA spot, came a-cropper Wednesday night as they headed into a showdown at Pittsburgh Saturday. Temple, now 14-6, upset Pitt 77-71 at Philadelphia while West Virginia held off a Penn State rally 83-82 on the Nittany Lions' home grounds.

Springfield upset Holy Cross 74-72 at Worcester, Mass., the Crusaders' fourth straight loss after winning 10 straight, homestanding Providence, already entered in the NIT, just held off visiting Assumption 68-67. Davidson blasted Wake Forest 90-75 at Charlotte, and Nick Werkman, the nation's leading major college scorer, scored 32 points in Seton Hall's 92-61 victory over St. Peter's.

In some of the other major games, Detroit edged Canisius 55-54. Marquette nipped Louisville 77-76. North Carolina beat Virginia 85-73. Rutgers defeated Colgate 93-82. LaSalle turned back Duquesne 73-69. Georgetown blasted Lafayette 89-58 and New Hampshire edged Vermont 97-94 in overtime.

Perrys' Team Wins Another

Perry's Truck Stop Independents defeated a Texarkana team last night by a 96 to 84 score. Calhoun was high for Hope with 25 points while Bruce made 19. For Texarkana, Jones was high man with 27.

Blevins Loses in District Tournament

Delight went into the District 7W B tournament semifinals last night by downing Horatio 70 to 45 but Blevins was ousted from the meet by the thin margin of one point.

In other games Fouke downed Laneburg 61 to 45 with Cross making 19 for the winner and Jimmy Loe 13 for the loser. In the Blevins-Dierks contest Turner scored 17 for Dierks while James Honnig cut had 15 for the loser.

Tonight sees Fouke, the host team, take on Foreman at 6 p.m. Genoa Central meets Spring Hill at 7:30 p.m. and Amity plays Dierks in the final game of the night.

Facts About People in News

Theologian Paul Tillich says conservatism threatens American security.

Tillich, 76, who came to this country from Germany in 1933, told a news conference in Berkeley, Calif.

"Communism is not a danger here at all, but conservatism is. What is called conservatism here seems to be a nice name for fascism."

He said one of Hitler's main weapons "was to always attack the Communists when he was really attacking the liberals."

David E. Lilienthal, the first chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, says it should be reorganized so the "contours of its job confirm to our 1963 picture of the atom, not that of 1946 when it was established."

Lilienthal, AEC chairman from 1946 to 1950, made the statement in a speech at Princeton University.

Rizzuto Almost Loses His Hand

ELIZABETH, N.J. (AP)—Former New York Yankee star Phil Rizzuto said from a hospital bed today it was hard to believe he still has all his fingers.

The four fingers of his right hand were fractured, two of them badly mangled, when he caught the hand in a snow plow while cleaning his front walk Tuesday night.

Rizzuto, former shortstop who now broadcasts the Yankee games, said quick, precise work by the doctors and nurses at St. Elizabeth's Hospital was responsible for saving the fingers.

"I couldn't believe at first that I hadn't lost one," he said.

Rizzuto said he hopes he can leave for Florida March 1 as scheduled to broadcast the baseball exhibition season.

Death Sentences

MOSCOW (AP)—Five Leningrad factory managers and salesmen have been sentenced to death, the paper Soviet Russia reported today, for embezzling the proceeds from surplus goods their shop produced.

Their well-run plants produced 15 to 20 per cent more fountain pens, buttons, razors and rulers than their annual quota. They reported only fulfillment of the quota, sold the surplus and split the proceeds with confederates.

specialist whose patients have included former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, recommends an average of one hour of strenuous exercise daily for the average American.

In a lecture at Tulane University in New Orleans, White suggested that instead of 5.0-mile hikes, it would be better if people walked two to four miles a day and occasionally walked up a few flights of stairs instead of taking an elevator.

U.S. Might Settle for 8 Inspections

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH

GENEVA (AP)—The United States indicated today it would settle for fewer than eight on-site inspections a year within the Soviet Union if the Soviet Union accepted a completely foolproof inspection procedure.

Chief U.S. Delegate William C. Foster presented the idea in a meeting of the 17-nation disarmament conference. He stressed that any American willingness to compromise would depend, among other things, on a satisfactory number of inspectors, the areas where they could operate and the criteria under which they could be dispatched.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov ignored Foster's suggestion. He tried to move the debate away from the test ban and into a discussion of an East-West nonaggression pact.

The Soviet Union has advanced the pact idea frequently, but the West wants it considered only in the general framework of disarmament treaty.

The talk in the corridors around the conference was that the United States and Britain ultimately might compromise on five or six on-site inspections per year on Soviet territory to check on suspicious earth tremors indicative of underground nuclear explosions.

Such a concession never has been spelled out to newsmen by members of the U.S. delegation, however. The negotiations have been deadlocked for weeks between the Soviet maximum offer of two or three inspections and the Western minimum demand for eight.

Foster released only extracts from his speech in the closed conference session. These included an oblique reference to American readiness to go below the minimum of light inspections.

"The United States," said Foster, "... has already indicated its flexibility in private talks and its willingness to consider such position as the Soviet Union might put forth on key issues of the negotiations."

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., attending the conference as U.S. Senate observer, told newsmen it would be difficult to obtain Senate approval for less than eight on-site inspections per year.

The deciding factor in any reduction in the number of inspections, Humphrey said, would be the total treaty arrangements to prevent cheating on the test ban agreement.

"I don't think we ought to say that any particular figure is the ultimate and final word," Humphrey said. "Obviously the Soviet offer of two or three inspections is unacceptable."

Foster was to fly to Washington later today to report to President Kennedy. He is expected back in Geneva early next week.

When To Fish or Hunt Solunar Tables

By John Alden Knight

The schedule of Solunar period as printed below, has been taken from John Alden Knight's Solunar Tables. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good territory or hunting in good cover during these times, if you wish to find the best sport that each day has to offer.

The Major periods are shown in bold face type. These begin at the time shown and last for an hour and a half or two hours thereafter. The minor periods, shown in regular type, are of somewhat shorter duration.

Oaklawn to Honor City of Little Rock

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Oaklawn Park honors Little Rock today with the feature event, a $3,000 optional claiming affair named after the capital city.

An entry carrying the colors of W. Hal Bishop is likely to carry the familiar role of favorite, heading nine sprinters of the 4-year-old and up class in the 6-furlong dash.

The Bishop entry is composed of Nest Egg and Other Brother. Nest Egg has had a former outing at this meeting.

Deepwood Stable has entered the combination of Lord Scott and Sutju, but several single entries are considered greater threats to the Bishop pair.

Chief among these are I. W. Spicer's Galveston Bay and Gordon Stable's Milo King.

Completing the field are Everett Lowrance's Mr. J., Mrs. A. M. Creech's Greek Challenger and Kozyna and Lukasz's Sun of Suspense, who will be topweighted with 119 pounds under conditions of the race.

Nest Egg finished third in an opening day race and was runner-up twice at New Orleans earlier this year. Other Brother, a non-winner in five starts this year, will have the riding services of Robert Nono.

Galveston Guy, a veteran of past Oaklawn seasons, will be returning action after a layoff of several months. He will be ridden by Earl Van Hook. Milo King will be handled by Eugene Curry.

C. B. McNeill's The Nutts charged forward in the stretch to finish head of Marion H. Van Berg's Big Hill Road and capture the featured $3,500 Benton Purse of the winner at the end of the race Wednesday.

Big Hill Road was within a head 5 1/2 furlong race and beat out his more highly regarded running mate Cable King by 1 1/4 lengths.

Van Berg's entries were heavily favored. P. T. Adwell's Alirab was fourth.

The Nutts, in his first outing since the fall meeting at Churchill Downs, finished the 5 1/2 furlongs in 1:05 3/5 and paid $32.60, $8.20 and $6.

A crowd of 6,875 watched the upset.

Complicated Land Case in Court

BENTON, Ark. (AP)—The complicated Marshall Stanley land condemnation suit went into its third day in Benton Circuit Court today with Stanley still claiming his land is worth $3 million and the state Highway Department claiming it is worth $3,600.

Stanley was awarded $150,000 in a first trial in 1961, but the state Supreme Court overturned the decision, partly on the grounds that the circuit court had not allowed the Highway Department to make drillings in the area near Stanley's property.

Robert B. McElwaine, a mining and economic geologist, testified Tuesday that he had made extensive drillings last year. He said the minerals that Stanley says are worth millions are found in abundance in all of southwest Saline County.

Gus Butler Jr. of Little Rock testified he thought Stanley's land was worth $1.4 million because of the gravel - type material from which Stanley makes ornamental surfacing for driveways.

The department condemned Stanley's 18 acres for highway right of way.

Poll Tax Not Needed for Pay

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The attorney general's office ruled today that teen-aged employees at the state Vocational-Technical School in Pine Bluff do not need a poll tax receipt in order to receive their salaries.

Leon Coker, director of the school, said he had been requiring extra help employees under 21 to obtain both a poll tax receipt and a certificate from the deputy tax collector that no taxes were owed by them.

The attorney general's office said while the poll tax receipt was not needed it was advisable that they obtain the tax certificate.

Porkers Add to List of Grid Ranks

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—The University of Arkansas added eight youths to its list of grid-iron prospects Wednesday.

Coach Frank Broyles said these youths had signed letters of intent with the school.

James (Butch) Hawthorne, Queen City, Tex.; William Grindie, Overton, Tex.; Gene Wilshire, Bonham, Tex.; Danny Smith, Carlsbad, N.M.; Larry DeWitt, Winfield, Kan.; Jim Bertoncino, Girard, Kan.; Ray Terrel, Murfreesboro, Ark. and Claude Lynch, Osceola, Ark.

Smith captained a team that won 22 straight games. The former Trumann, Ark. student played tackle at 5-11, 225 pounds.

Grindie, a fullback, stands 6-3 and weighs 210. Broyles said he has good speed. Bertoncino is a combination fullback-halfback who lettered in three sports and is a B-plus student. He is 6-0 and weighs 280.

Dewitt probably will play end for the Porkers, Broyles said. The 6-5, 210 pounder earned letters in basketball and track as well as football. Hawthorne is a 6-3, 215 pound linebacker who doubles as tackle.

Lynch, at 6-0 and 190 pounds, played fullback. Wilshire played football, basketball and was a high-jumper in track. He is 6-3, 185.

Terrel, another high-jumper as well as footballer, was voted the top lineman in his district and made the all-state team as an end. He is a top scholar.

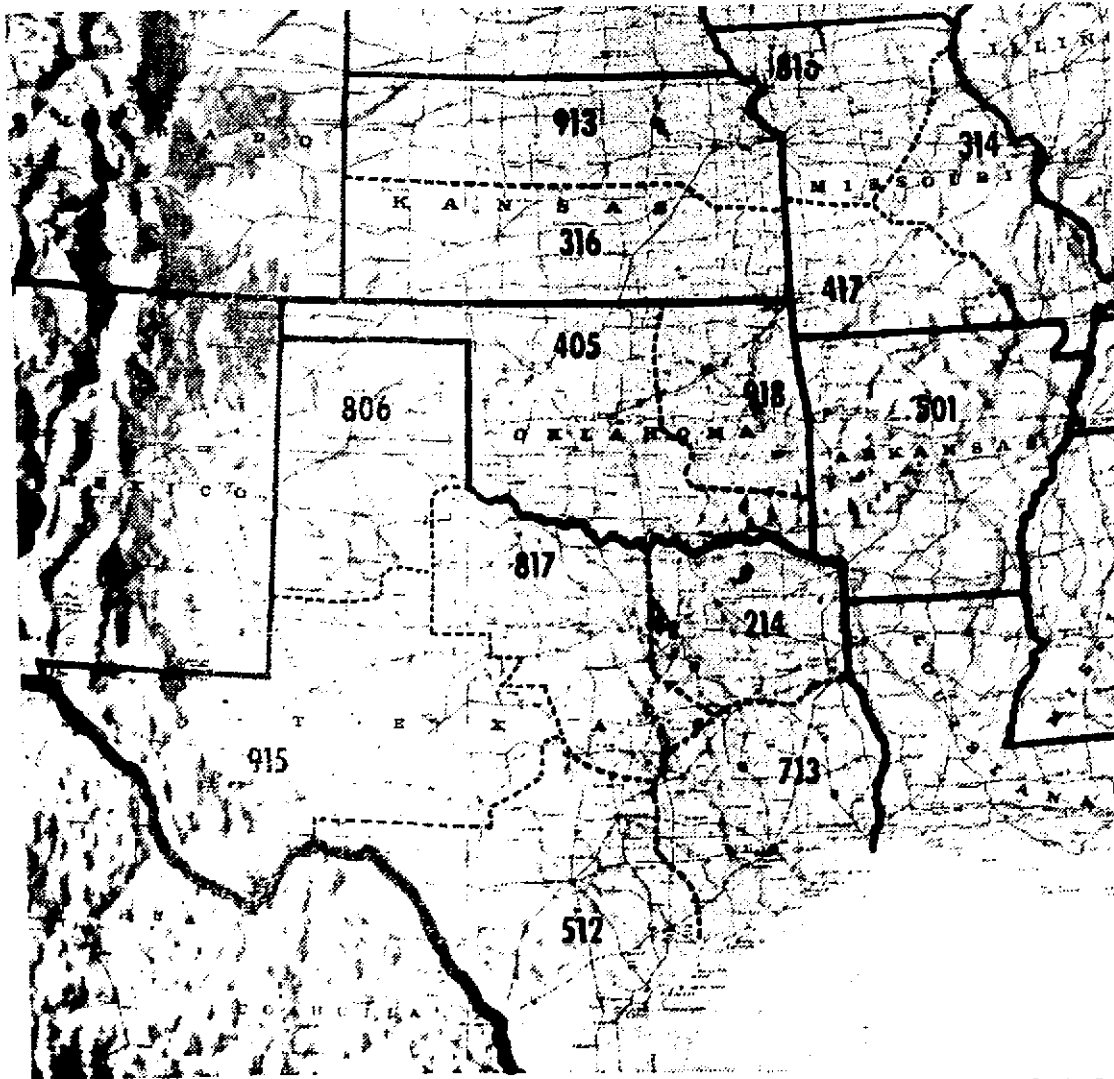

Scoring Balanced on Two Teams

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Henderson and Ouachita, the two Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference basketball teams at Arkadelphia, each have three men among the leading scorers, according to statistics released today.

Freshman Kenneth Lewis is pacing Henderson with 19.7 a game. Junior Sam Barker is hitting 14.8 and freshman Bill Burson is getting 14.1 per game.

Wayne Davenport is leading Ouachita with an average of 18.6 points a game. Leon Clements is next with 16.5 and David Kossover is hitting 13.0 a game.

Kenny Saylor of Arkansas Tech, sidelined last week with a broken wrist, holds the scoring lead with a 24.0 average. Lavaghaun Robertson of Arkansas College is second with 20.4.

George Washington appeared on 10-center in 1847, one of first stamps issued by United States.

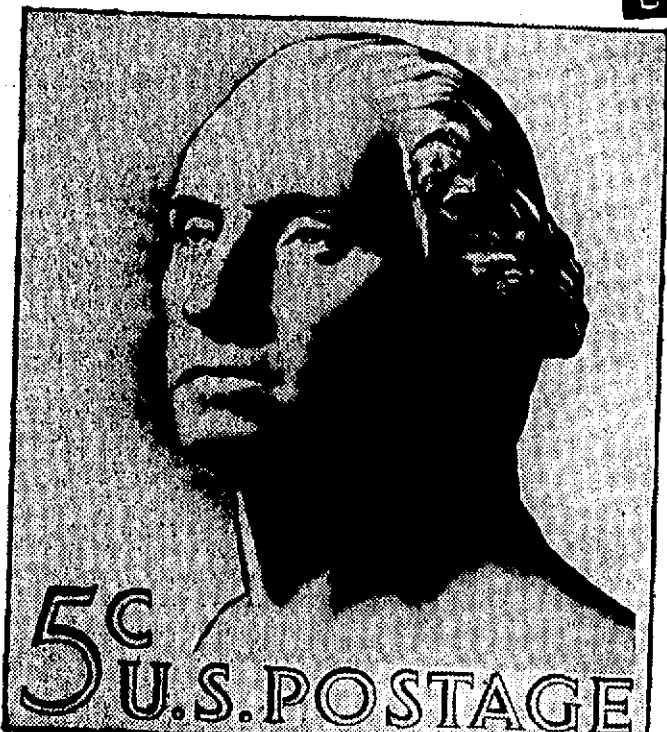

First three-cent stamp came in 1851, copied after 1785 bust of Washington by Jean Houdon.

Last standard three-cent issue was this one, most used until superseded by four-cent Lincoln.

Three of many Washington commemorative stamps are shown above. Stamp of 1947 recalled that Washington and Franklin appeared on first U.S. stamps.

Like 1851 three-center, new five-cent Washington, for first-class mail, is based on Houdon sculpture.

DR. ANDERS' DILEMMA

HENRY AND SYLVIA
LIEFERANT

THE STORY: David Anders, a young intern, has "discovered" Nancy Horton, a very pretty student nurse. And David has in turn been discovered by Rhoda Bascomb, daughter of a prominent surgeon who is interested in David.

CHAPTER III

Full of energy, he strode into the ward next morning. Nancy's good morning held laughter, but Miss Peters kept close. Once when she passed him, he had an urge to snatch her cap and hide it in his pocket, as small boys do. At last he made the chart room at an opportune moment. "I want to talk to you."

"Why do you have to talk to me?"

"I'll need hours to tell."

"I'm still free on Thursdays," she whispered. "Sometimes I go to the Central Park Zoo at three o'clock."

The light over Bed 14 went up. Two green and a red flashed over their heads. The telephone rang. All at once the sundrenched white room sprang into life with insistent demands. Miss Peters thrust her head into the cubicle with a brisk summons.

By Wednesday night David had retted himself into a complete state of entanglement, since sometime during that period he had inconveniently remembered his promise to meet Rhoda Bascomb Thursday. He had no intention of losing his imperative date with Nancy to Rhoda. For a young man who had never dated a girl, to have, abruptly, two on his hands seemed an unsurmountable obstacle.

His first obligation was to Rhoda, yet he didn't care a busted hypo needle about seeing her teach good citizenship. He wanted to spend both the afternoon and evening with Nancy. To sacrifice this was unthinkable.

Having no desire to waste a sunny day on the Zoo, they set off through the park. Unconsciously he slowed his stride to hers, and soon they were walking as if they were one. Step by step, rhythm for rhythm, along shaded and sunny paths they moved in an expectant silence until their very thoughts beat in the same tempo and Nancy said, "Why did you ask me so suddenly to go out with you?"

"Nancy, there are subtleties in medicine."

"What does medicine have to do with it?"

"Nancy," he sighed, "let me be honest, please. I like to be honest with you. It's one of the symptoms."

made an effort not to think of you. At first it wasn't too difficult, but you grew on me. And then when I asked for a date—"Yes?"

"Let me tell you something. Something that happened to me when I was a kid. Maybe you won't get the connection, but there is one. Well, anyway, it happened when I was very young. I awoke one morning to see something strange in the sky. I'd never seen a sunrise, and when I ran frightened to my mother's room, she wrapped me in a coat, took me down to the garden and held me up to see the beauty—and the splendor. 'Do you remember seeing the story about the king sending gaily dressed messengers to say he's coming?' she asked me. 'That's what the sun does, Davey, sends all those lovely colors to tell us there's going to be another sunny day, so your father can lie on the porch and get well.'"

"Did your father get well—Davey?"

He could see the compassion in her profile, the thick lashes swiftly brushed over her eyes. "No, he died shortly after. Mother followed in a few years."

"I was more fortunate," she said softly, wishing she might have shared her fortune with him. "I had my mother until I was 12, and Dad five years longer. My Dad was a country doctor. Davey—slaved his life away, killed himself for it. He'd been up 48 hours, tending people who didn't even pay their bills—afterwards. He fell asleep driving his car."

"They had almost reached the western limit of the park, and he stopped to watch boys sailing boats on the pond."

"You know what we're doing is crazy, don't you? It can't go on. Davey, there isn't any sense to it. It won't lead anywhere."

"Isn't everybody entitled to one crazy day in a lifetime?"

"Then you do understand that it's just one day, today? The day is no more. Nothing is going to interfere with my getting what I've set my heart on, Davey. I've set my heart on you. It's a sacred promise to myself. I still have nine months."

"Do you think I'd let any gossip or scandal—"

"There may be a hundred rules that are necessary. But this one, Davey, a student nurse mustn't talk to an intern socially. Mustn't go out with him. I tell you it's medicine."

"Especially in our case," David grinned.

He took her arm and turned her away from the pond.

CHAPTER IV

They walked to Harbor. The tumult in their hearts kept them discreetly apart on the street. At the first "Hospital—Quite Please" sign, Nancy stopped.

"You'd better let me go on alone. We mustn't be seen."

"I'll watch you—see that you get in safely. Couldn't we—just once more, Nancy..."

Their parting was inconclusive. No hand clasp or attempted kiss, though David wondered what turn events would take if, here on the street, he had the courage to risk discovery and take her in his arms. Bleakly his gaze followed her figure down the two streets to the hospital.

"Phone calls for you, Doctor," the night clerk said while he signed in. "Three from Miss Bascomb—one from Dr. Bascomb's office. They said to call his home any time you arrived."

There was a pay telephone in the reception room, and a few more prospective fathers plowing up the carpet. David closed himself into the booth and called Rhoda. She answered the telephone herself with an "Oh, hi, you!" after he said mechanically, "Anders speaking."

"I'm sorry about tonight, Miss Bascomb. Oh, all right—Rhoda. Something came up—something—"

His mind floundered. He almost told her the truth—"something personal. I couldn't get to a phone." That sounded pretty good to him. It held a measure of truth, and he believed there should be some fidelity to facts in excuses.

She said in a throaty, sullen tone, "The Neighborhood House got along very well without you."

That sullenness aroused him, obliged him, somehow, to persist until he had been forgiven.

"I'd like to talk to your father," he added, after dropping a second coin in the slot. "He called me, too."

Her laughter mocked him ever so slightly. "I'm afraid you're one so slightly. 'I'm afraid you're one individuals who doesn't know his way around. Dad didn't call you. That was I—disguised as Dad's secretary. I thought if you would not call me back, you'd surely call him.'"

As at their first meeting, her shameless honesty amused him. "I just got in five minutes ago. 'It's not very late now,' Rhoda hinted. 'You don't have to be tucked in at midnight tonight, do you?'"

"Your time is up. Kindly deposit another five cents—"

"All right, Operator," Rhoda said firmly. "Listen, David, come on over for a nightcap or something, and hang up. It's cheap."

She disconnected first, so he would have to go unless he called her back.

Rhoda herself admitted him, and led him to a small room done in soothing pastel shades of rose and blue and beige.

"It's a fine hour to come calling Rhoda."

She pushed him gently into a chair and took the ottoman at his knees. "This isn't late for me. Dad's at a meeting and midnight supper. I always wait up for him."

Legislators Divided on Rockefeller

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP)—About 20 southeast Arkansas legislators seem evenly divided on whether Winthrop Rockefeller should be removed from the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission.

In a meeting of the Southeast Arkansas Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night, some spoke for a planned bill to remove him and some spoke against it.

The 150 chamber of commerce officials seemed in favor of keeping Rockefeller, and their heaviest applause went to pro-Rockefeller speakers.

Sam Bowman, a banker from McGehee and a member of the AIDC, asked the legislators to put themselves on record as being for or against the removal of Rockefeller.

"If there's anything wrong with the AIDC, Rockefeller shouldn't carry the blame," he said. "The legislature should remember that many industrialists Arkansas is trying to attract are Republicans themselves." If Rockefeller is removed because of his Republican activity, he said, it would result in "a terrible black eye for Arkansas throughout the U.S.A."

"Whatever your political position," said Sen. Joe Hurley of El Dorado, "the problem before us doctor, I'd better learn to do that too. You never know when they come home."

He served coffee in big mansized cups with plenty of cream and sugar. The drink soothed him as did the security of the room, and Rhoda's interest.

He began to talk, to think aloud. It was perplexing, he said, for an intern to choose which road to travel in a world so full of complications. An intern could not even take a girl out decently, entertain her in the simplest fashion. As for marriage—he guessed the state would soon have to subsidize marriage for physicians. Even if he took that Camwell job, what next? He could save, of course, but not enough to pay his way in cash. It still meant opening an office on the installment plan, and establishing a practice.

He talked of the possibility of his getting the appointment in Cornish's office, and of the Medical Chief's ukase against marriage, which necessitated a man's making a grave and perhaps unnatural decision.

"There are other medical men beside Dr. Cornish, aren't there?"

"A man can't go out on the streets and just pick up another great physician who'll show an interest in him. It's queer about Cornish. You know he doesn't really hate women—"

"As if women would care if he did. One of us must have given him a raw deal," Rhoda concluded, which was the general though obvious belief concerning the man.

is bringing industry and jobs to Arkansas. We have had the greatest per capita increase in jobs in the nation and Rockefeller has been at least partially responsible for it."

"I'll feel as charitable toward Rockefeller as he felt toward Jefferson County representatives when he campaigned against them last summer," said Rep. Albert Hayes of Arkansas County.

Rep. G. W. Turner of Jefferson County said Arkansas must keep its industrial image and must retain Rockefeller.

Rep. Ben Bynum of Chicot County said the bill would leave AIDC appointments in Gov. Orval E. Faubus' hands. "I'm willing to leave them in his hands," he said.

Rep. Edward E. Hopson of Desha County said he would fight the bill in the House. Rep. R. L. Goodwin of Calhoun County said he would hate to see Rockefeller removed.

Rep. Bill Wells of Bradley County didn't say what his position was, but he said, "We've gotten one industry in our county and we have Arkansas Power & Light Co. to thank for that."

"This bill is the only way we have to get back at the Republican opposition we had last summer," said Rep. Arthur Deckelman of Drew County.

Rep. G. D. Smith Jr. of Lincoln County declined to commit himself, but said, "If you want to make certain you don't get anything, just criticize a state agency."

"Even though I'm a Democrat, and he's a Republican, I'm against removing him from the AIDC," said Rep. Nap Murphy of Ashley County.

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

The price of America's business merit badge—the ucler—comes high. Some 49,000 victims are absent from the job each work day.

Some style experts say U.S. women's waists are growing more than their bust and hip measurements. Fascinating possibility: In another generation our girls may have a straight up and down look—like walking flower boxes.

The FBI never rests. J. Edgar Hoover's agents add about 21,000 fingerprint sets to their files daily.

Howard Ketchum, industrial color consultant, advises business employees to wear colored shirts during the day and save their white shirts for evening wear. "A man in a colored shirt looks like he's ready to roll up his sleeves and go to work," he says. Well, if it'll help impress the boss—

Some fashion advisers hold that girls dressed in pink are most attractive to men. I doubt this. My theory is that men prefer girls in red, blue or yellow dresses.

Things can't be getting so much worse. According to government figures, the suicide rate has only risen half of one percentage point since "the good old days" of 1900.

The last park census showed New York City had 2,341,497 trees—or better than one for every three persons.

A fat man can lose up to half a pound merely by moving from Washington, D.C., to Quito, Ecuador, where the altitude is much higher.

Americans traveled an average of 4,100 miles last year—1,000 miles more than they did a decade ago.

Arlene Frances has a passion for sun glasses, keeps a variety of pairs to go with different outfits. Sophia Loren has the problem of keeping both her shape and her enthusiasm for spaghetti.

Brigitte Bardot is now the leading pin-up girl among U.S. prisoners—and college boys.

"A new $800 car is promised. You don't park it. You just drive to your destination—and abandon it"—Arnold H. Glasow.

Only two presidents have lived to celebrate their golden wedding anniversaries. They were John Adams, married 64 years and 3 days; and his son, John Quincy Adams, 50 years, 112 days.

It was Israel Zangwill who observed: "A man likes his wife to be just clever enough to comprehend his cleverness, and just stupid enough to admire it."

Factions, Not Action in the News

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Factions but not much action, all around.

At home—
Nothing much so far in 1963 seems to have gotten off the ground in Washington except the Republicans' attack on the Kennedy administration's handling of foreign policy, particularly Cuba.

Abroad—
Spat and chat in the allied family. President Kennedy says it's due in part to the Russians, because they're quieter. He said "we're enjoying the luxury of internal dissension." But the spat, if it gets bad enough, can wreck the family.

Spat and chat in the Communist family, too. Russians and Red Chinese call names, express disgust with each other, but Premier Khrushchev drools over the Chinese ambassador. If the spat gets bad enough, goodbye Communist family.

Grumbling but not much excitement in Congress when Kennedy sends his record peacetime budget: $98.8 billion. The usual cries: expenses must be cut. Not much fire in the fust.

Kennedy sends Congress his aid to education program. Will soon send one on medical care for the aged. Neither program seems to have much chance. No wonder. Kennedy himself was skeptical of their chances before he ever sent them to the Hill.

Kennedy sends Congress his tax-cutting program to enable consumers to buy more and business to invest more. This got the most reaction and much, if not most of it, has been sour.

To help it, Kennedy supporters hit on the feeble idea of trying to add two more members to the conservative Senate Finance Committee to liberalize it. The result: defeat. This is not fighting. This is sparring.

Business chimes in on the opposite side. Ladd Plumley, president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, says the plan favors the consumer too much. Amen, says the National Association of Manufacturers.

The only real heat so far this year comes from the Republican criticism of Kennedy's foreign doings. It's been unceasing. Irritated, Kennedy is having his supporters tell the Republicans to pipe down. They won't. He stays mild.

In short, Kennedy isn't showing any more sign of tough fighting—the kind former President Truman used to enjoy—than he did in 1961 or 1962.

The Kennedy administration got into tiffs with Canada and France.

With Canada—because it didn't put American nuclear warheads on American missiles there. With France—because President Charles de Gaulle snubbed the Kennedy offer of missiles on which he'd have to put his own warheads, of which he doesn't have any.

At the same time De Gaulle, whose high-held nose was pointed at the British, too, kept them out and bottled enough, the Americans and Russians are back sult: ever since the Allies have been scrambling for a solution which they haven't found.

Sentenced for Fordyce Burglary

FORDYCE, Ark. (AP)—James Alvin Harris, 39, and Robert Fox, 30, both Negroes from Little Rock, were given 10-year sentences in Dallas Circuit Court here Monday for a $5,000 burglary last Feb. 9. They were convicted of burglarizing the Kilgore Bros. Supermarket here. They were arrested at Little Rock last week and charged here Saturday.

Europe for Europeans Is His Aim

By MAURICE DELARUE

Copyright 1963

By The Associated Press

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle cannot be reproached for lacking continuity in his thinking. Tactical necessities may oblige him to zig or zag. But his final aim is clear, and long since a matter of record.

This aim is to make of a united Europe "a Europe that is really European." It must be its own master, and, first of all, control its own defense. It must be a united Europe that is distinct, but allied to the United States. Europe and the United States would be equal in stature and power.

The Atlantic Alliance remains indispensable as long as the Soviet menace exists. But this united and independent Europe would act as a magnetic attraction for the Russian people. It would prod the Russian regime to change and become more human. Chinese pressure would add this metamorphosis, which would be slow but already is under way, and would permit establishment of a "European understanding from the Atlantic to the Urals." This would not be done against America, but with full American agreement, after the cold war has disappeared.

The political outline of Europe is a weak point in this vision of the future. How would this united Europe be governed?

De Gaulle evades the question with sarcasm against "supranationality" or a "stateless Europe." He thinks that for the present it is necessary—and sufficient—to bring into being a common desire for an organized cooperation among governments, through regular and frequent consultations from chiefs of state on down.

Better yet, as a practical start on this program, it is necessary—and sufficient—to organize cooperation between France and Germany. The rest will follow. For almost 15 years, De Gaulle has never stopped preaching in favor of this "practical arrangement between Gauls and Germans" which finally took form in the French-German treaty signed last Jan. 22.

Kennedy is trying to set up what he calls a multinational nuclear force although no one—and at this moment perhaps not Kennedy himself—seems to know how this would work because American law requires American control of American nuclear weapons.

And, if things weren't boxed at the British, too, kept them out and bottled enough, the Americans and Russians are back sult: ever since the Allies have been scrambling for a solution which they haven't found.

Americans Comply With Foreign Laws

EDITOR'S NOTE — A record 41,000 persons were killed by traffic accidents in the United States last year. Elsewhere the toll rose in some nations, fell in others. Reasons were sought by AP bureaus abroad. This dispatch presents the highlights of their findings.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The West German motorist is told "keep your distance."

A Moscow truck carries painted on its rear a warning to Soviet drivers, who often seem to make their own rules. "Less speed on turns."

Americans concerned about deaths on U.S. streets and highways—a record 41,000 in 1962—can take note. They have company in other nations less richly endowed with motor vehicles.

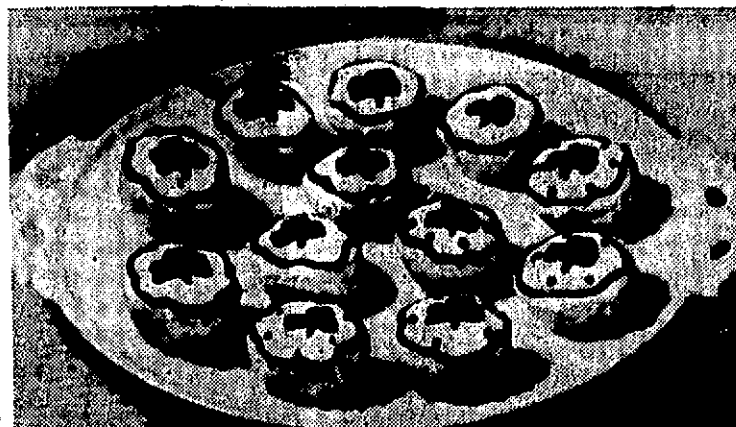

The U.S. mark, announced by the National Safety Council in Chicago, was set in a year that saw 79 million American vehicles traveling a total of 767 billion miles. That would equal 1.65 million round trips to the moon.

No other nation came close in either number of vehicles or mileage. But the fatality rate on a per capita basis was in some cases startlingly similar.

West Germany's record is worse than that of America, although German fatalities decreased slightly.

On the streets and autobahns of the Bonn republic last year 14,000 persons were killed. That toll, in a nation of 56 million, would be about 46,000 if projected among the 187 million people of the United States.

France ran close. A nation of 46.2 million, its toll was 10,112. The Canadians' auto driving habits and traffic regulations most closely resemble those of the United States. With almost one-tenth as many people, Canada's safety record was better. The death toll, 3,440.

SHAMROCK cupcakes, trimmed in green, are an appropriate and delicious dessert to serve on St. Patrick's Day.

Efforts to stem the tide take months and lift his license for a year.

Safety campaigns. Rome plans a four-month drive through newspapers, billboards, radio and television to promote a higher regard for pedestrians, speed limits and right of way at intersections.

A crackdown on the tipsy. A new law empowers Swiss courts to jail any drunken driver for six months and lift his license for a year.

out as spotty abroad as in the United States.

In France, safety campaigns as Americans know them are rare, but city police crack down after particularly bad accidents. In Italy, safety education has been handled largely through state-approved driving schools.

Norway has a special problem because practically nobody was permitted to drive a car during the German occupation in World War II and driver education was limited by car rationing that persisted until 1959.

Publicity campaigns and increasing skill of the people behind the wheels helped to reduce the Norwegian toll somewhat last year, even though the number of cars increased by 20 per cent.

You'll never know how the Russians made out. Like so many other things in the Soviet Union, traffic statistics are a state secret.

The first Protestant Christian preacher known to have set foot on Arkansas soil was a Methodist, named William Patterson, who arrived about 1800.

Southern Baptist Group Largest

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The Baptist Press, voice of the Southern Convention, said Tuesday the convention has grown into the largest Protestant denomination in America.

J. P. Edmunds, secretary of research and statistics for the Southern Baptist Sunday School Board, reported membership of 10,193,052 at the year's end.

The Baptist Press commented, "This means the Southern Baptist Convention has passed the Methodist Church as the largest Protestant denomination in America."

The latest figures list Methodist membership at 10,046,293. The number of Southern Baptist churches increased to 32,892. Edmunds said, for a gain of 294. Membership was up by 214,564, or 2.2 per cent during 1962, he added.

The earliest recorded Protestant sermon, was preached at Arkansas Post in 1811 by a Cumberland Presbyterian, the Reverend John Carnahan.

Sweetheart Of A Dessert

This love of a dessert features a creamy layer of deliciously sweet and rich-tasting pink strawberry cream, topped with a clear layer of sparkling red strawberry jelly. Surprise is that such a heavenly concoction can be so low in calories. Thanks to the calorie-free sweetener, Sucaryl, used here in place of sugar, there are only 54 calories in each sweet serving (less than half the usual calorie count).

STRAWBERRY SWEETHEART DESSERT

(Low-Calorie)

First Layer
4 cups strawberries
1 envelope (or tablespoon) unflavored gelatin
1/4 cup cold water

1 1/2 teaspoons Sucaryl solution
1 teaspoon lemon juice
Red food coloring

Second Layer
1 tablespoon Sucaryl solution
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 envelopes (or table-spoons) unflavored gelatin

To make first layer: Puree strawberries. Soften gelatin in cold water. Measure 1/4 cup of the strawberry puree and add the 1/4 cup water; bring to a boil. Add to softened gelatin, stirring to dissolve. Add Sucaryl, lemon juice and food coloring, as desired. Pour into a lightly oiled 7-cup heart shaped mold; chill until set.

To make second layer: Add Sucaryl and lemon juice to remaining strawberry puree. Soften gelatin in cold water; dissolve over boiling water. Add to puree and chill until mixture begins to thicken. Combine dry milk and ice water in small bowl; mix; beat on high speed until thick. Fold into strawberry gelatin. Spoon mixture over clear layer of gelatin in mold; chill until set. Makes 10 servings.

Gambling Probe Is Resumed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Federal gambling investigations have resumed at West Memphis Negro establishments United States Atty. Robert D. Smith said Tuesday.

Smith said that investigations showed that most activity has been limited to weekends. He said the establishments were being watched to see if there were violations of federal law.

A federal investigation of West Memphis gambling last year resulted in the indictment and conviction of Andrew Stratton Bass, Negro of West Memphis in federal court in Jonesboro.

Bass was arrested on a state gambling charge Monday after he testified at a grand jury hearing in Marion. Officials said Bass's arrest was not related to his grand jury testimony but to testimony given at his federal trial in Jonesboro.

Hearing on a Rate Increase

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Railroad spokesmen told the state Commerce Commission in a hearing Tuesday that their requested intra-state freight rate hike would produce $619,000 more in annual revenues.

The railroads want to bring intrastate rates up to the level of interstate rates. The hearing on the proposed increase continued today.

T. D. Rodman of St. Louis, assistant controller of Missouri Pacific Lines, said rising costs have forced railroads to charge more.

The rate of return on investments dwindled, he said, from 4.52 per cent in 1957 to 3.36 per cent in 1960.

Other railroads involved in the request are Rock Island, Cotton Belt, Frisco, Kansas City Southern and its subsidiary, Louisiana and Arkansas Railroad.

Kroger Elects Treasurer

Karkow

CINCINNATI, O. — Election of Richard E. Karkow as treasurer of the Kroger Co. has been announced by Joseph B. Hall, chairman of the board of directors. He succeeds Frank M. Grieme, who retired recently.

Mr. Karkow was previously treasurer of the Pet Milk Company of St. Louis, Mo. Prior to joining Pet in 1960 he was secretary and assistant treasurer of H. M. Byllesby and Company, Chicago investment banking and holding company. From 1954 to 1959 he was associated with the Northern Trust Company of Chicago.

Mr. Karkow is a graduate of Kenyon College, Gambier, Ohio, where he was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. He received a Master's degree from the Harvard University Graduate School of Business Administration and a law degree from Loyola University. He was admitted to the Illinois Bar in 1958.

May Delay Probe of U.S. Poultry

WASHINGTON (AP) — Recent court actions may cause considerable delay in completion of the Agriculture Department's recently announced investigation of trade and market practices in the nation's poultry industry.

A federal court at Fayetteville, Ark., has put off until after March 25 a decision on whether two Arkansas poultry processors may open their books to the department under provisions of the packers and stockyards act. The act directs the department to police livestock and poultry markets against unfair trade practices, discrimination and other dealings harmful to producers and consumers.

The Arkansas processors refused to make their books available to department investigators. The department, acting through the Justice Department, went into the court at Fayetteville for an order requiring the processors to open their record.

The controversy was argued in court Monday. The court postponed ruling in the case until after both sides submitted written briefs by March 25.

In announcing a broad investigation several weeks ago, officials said the department has received many complaints of some producers being discriminated against by processors because they had testified at a congressional hearing on poultry marketing practices. They said also there had been complaints of discrimination against some producers joining in organizations to improve their market situations.

Although investigators will go ahead collecting what information is available, officials said access to processor records are essential for a thorough determination of the facts.

There has been much producer dissatisfaction in recent years with prices paid for broiler poultry.

Fiction of Monaco Set Straight

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

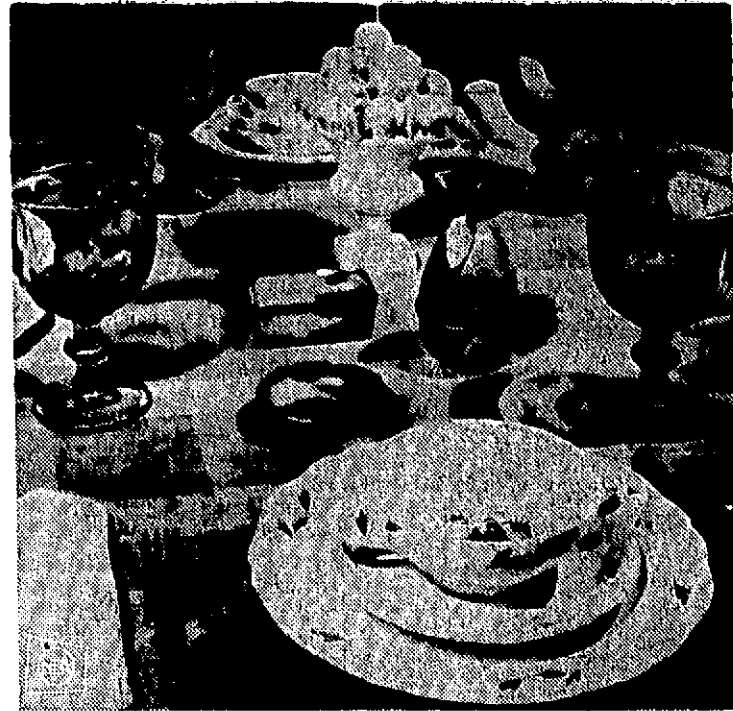

NEW YORK (AP) — Monaco, some of us have always thought, is a place where younger sons of earls, usually named E. Phillips Oppenheim, casually lose everything at the gaming tables and then stroll gallantly into the Casino gardens and are never seen again.

But after Sunday night's CBS special, "A Look at Monaco," I know this is all a foolish girl's romantic dream. Monaco is really our town, governed by the folks next door.

Her Serene Highness, Princess Grace, seems to have picked up some sort of a combination British-Riviera accent during the past few years, but she is still more beautiful than any reigning Hollywood queen. She lives—apparently on a perpetual honeymoon—in a colorful little country backed by mountains, covered with white houses with red roofs and with a constant view of a blue-green sea.

The famous Monte Carlo Casino seems scarcely to exist for the princess and the prince. They're barred from the gambling joint by tradition and mostly ignore it. According to the report, the princess from Philadelphia and her prince live in an old castle, raising children, visiting orphanages and admiring paintings, while husband and children visit their private processor records are essential for a thorough determination of the facts.

There has been much producer dissatisfaction in recent years with prices paid for broiler poultry.

small to accommodate the entire CGS headquarters establishment. Dwight Greene said that the facility was still being considered. Greene said the survey knew the facility was too small before it sent an inspector to look over the West Memphis property.

The site is being considered along with others in the nation to house the headquarters operation of the CGS. The survey is presently located in scattered offices throughout Washington.

The engineer facility will become vacant this fall when engineers move into the new federal building in Memphis.

Negotiations for use of the site were begun last month by Arkansas representative E. C. (Took) Gathings. Mayor Bob Eden of West Memphis opposed use of the site by CGS. He said the city planned to annex the property as soon as it is declared surplus. Plans call for the site to be used as a Mississippi River Harbor or an industrial site by West Memphis, Eden said.

Says Shows Must Have Movement

NEW YORK (AP) — "My complaint is that they call in the choreographer when they can't solve their problems any other way," observed James Starbuck, dancer and choreographer.

"They know they have to put some movement into their shows. If they don't, people might just as well listen to a stack of records."

"But calling in a man to plan some dancing and movement late is like calling in the plumber to patch up a leak after it's done the damage."

Starbuck has been putting movement and dancing into television shows for 15 years. He has developed a specialty of supplying non-dancers — principally singers and dramatic stars with enough simple dance steps to "integrate" them into variety shows or, at least, to get them gracefully on and off stage.

It was Starbuck who turned all those celebrity guests on the old "Arthur Murray Party" into one-shot waltzers, cha-cha-chas and jitterbug practitioners. It was Starbuck who turned the 25-man "Sing Along with Mitch" chorus, a balding, middle-aged beef trust, into mobile performers.

"It was difficult," he conceded. "The men were ready, willing and able—but they had spent years standing still as backgrounds or singing jingles off-camera. We held weekly dance classes, and we showed them how to watch the cameras. The big problem to overcome was getting them so they could move with the show—but still be able to think about the lyrics."

Starbuck says his toughest problem in getting movement into the show results from Miller's practice of having the chorus record the songs in advance, but not on camera. Then he must plan the production numbers around music which is already made.

Fight Mars Texas, A&M Cage Game

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In a night punctuated by a gang fight and an aggregate scoring record, Texas moved to the threshold of the Southwest Conference basketball championship with an 82-73 triumph over Texas A&M.

The fight came at the close of the Texas-A&M game and involved about 350 students of the two schools. Three students were injured, none seriously, and even football coaches Hank Fuldberg of A&M and Darrell Royal of Texas couldn't stop it.

Police finally brought things under control.

Texas won its 10th straight game and held onto a three-game lead when second-place Rice defeated Baylor 74-70. A&M fell to third place with a 6-4 record.

Southern Methodist and Texas Christian raced up and down the court without a thought of defense as the Methodists won 109-98. The aggregate of 207 was the highest in conference history. Southern Methodist was only one point away from the one-team record.

Arkansas whipped Texas Tech 83-78 and stayed in a tie with Southern Methodist for fourth place, each at 5-5.

Bennie Lenox of A&M racked up 43 points for a school scoring record but it didn't do much good. Texas was led by sophomore Larry Franks, with 24 points and senior Jimmy Gilbert, with 22.

Rice ran its conference record to 7-3 against Baylor. The Owls came from behind late in the game to nip the Bers, who have won only two games out of 10. Kendall Rhine of Rice had 23 points but fell farther behind in the scoring race. Lenox now has 460 points while Rhine shows 431, in one less game, however.

Gen Elmore of SMU matched points with Bobby McKinley of Texas Christian in the Fort Worth marathon, each pitching in 30. Dave Siegmund of SMU had 29. Tommy Boyer led Arkansas to its narrow triumph over Texas Tech, scoring 30 points. He also got his 40th straight free throw, giving him a percentage for the season of 93.07-top in the nation.

Big Soups Fill A Big Season

It's the BIG season—big, cold, big snow, big appetites, and big soups!

Those "Soups" are amazingly successful in taking the edge off the other "bigs". Hot soup is cheerful. It virtually steams congeniality.

Some of the most appetizing, chill-chasing soups can be created from the tiniest cans—like a can of vegetable dry soup mix. Just one of these flavor-packed 2 ounce cans will make more than three cups of soup.

Plan to serve this shimmering welcome called Shanghai Bowl the next time you're having friends in for the evening. A late supper will be no trouble at all when centered about this hearty winter soup. The unusual additions of beef, shrimp, and a dash of saffron give it an exotic quality. Present the soup in a tureen accompanied by a tray of sliced Chinese cabbage, carrots, and cucumber strips, and some sesame seed wafers. Cheese pie and a choice of tea or coffee finish the meal.

Shanghai Bowl

2 1/2 cup cubed cooked ham
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
2 cups water
1 can (2 ounces) vegetable dry soup mix
3/4 cup cut-up cooked shrimp
1 teaspoon lemon juice
Dash saffron

In saucepan, brown ham in butter. Add water and soup mix. Partially cover; simmer 15 minutes, stirring now and then. Add remaining ingredients. Heat, stirring. Makes 8 to 4 servings.

Talks Bog Down

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP)—Local 568 of the Truck Drivers Union struck the Southern Transportation Co. here Monday after contract talks apparently bogged down. Company and union officials declined comment. About 25 drivers and mechanics went on strike. Negotiations have been underway since September.

Terms Can Run Concurrently

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Justice Department has ruled that Arnold Edens' federal prison term can run concurrently with his state prison terms, U.S. Atty. Robert Smith said today.

This will mean Edens, former Paragould investment broker, will be eligible for parole in about 4 1/2 years.

He was sentenced to 16 years in prison on a federal court conviction and to 11 and 12 year terms in state courts on various

DeGaulle Uses Common Mkt. Machine

EDITOR'S NOTE—France's attitude toward Britain and the United States has raised many questions about Charles de Gaulle and his aims. The Associated Press asked a French editor to explain some of the thinking behind De Gaulle's actions and to tell what all this may mean to France in the end. The writer, foreign editor of the Paris newspaper France-Soir, is president of the Association of Diplomatic Correspondents in Paris and has covered most of the big international conferences in that city since the war.

For De Gaulle, the Common Market is only a machine that he found in working order when he returned to power in 1958. He uses it because it has proved effective in welding together the economies of the continental nations.

In this Gaullist Europe, England has no place. Not that De Gaulle has a low opinion of England. He paid high tribute to England's historical accomplishments in his recent news conference—but the tribute was largely overlooked while the headlines went to his arguments against British entry into the Common Market.

In De Gaulle's view, England would challenge France's preeminence in the "Europe of states." And, above all, England is really not European. It is, with the Commonwealth, still another world.

No doubt it is a world in the process of breaking up but Prime Minister Harold Macmillan had the opportunity and the time—in 15 months of negotiation in Brussels—to hitch England to Europe. Instead, in 48 hours in Nassau, he chose another course.

He made his option for America most unique contribution that England handed over to Kennedy the land could have offered to Europe as a dowry—its nuclear force.

This is the Gaullist interpretation of the Nassau agreement, and the explanation of the French veto at Brussels.

A non-American Europe does not signify an anti-American Europe. De Gaulle said Dec. 20, "The Atlantic Alliance is more necessary today than ever" as he bade farewell to Gen. Lauris-Narstad. In moments of stress—in Berlin, on Cuba—he has proved himself the firmest of allies.

But if the Atlantic Alliance is one thing, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization is another. In practice, NATO is under American domination. It cannot be otherwise as long as the defense of Europe depends solely on the American atomic deterrent.

The tasks must be redistributed, not as U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara would like, in supplementing the American atomic monopoly by classical arms from Europe, but in granting Europe all the means for its own defense.

Certainly, this European arsenal would have to be combined with that of the United States. In return, the United States would be assured of the unconditional support of its European allies in case it was menaced.

In the absence of a European political authority, the nuclear forces in Europe can only be under national control. In the present circumstances in Europe, they can only be French. Nuclear armament of Germany would carry the risk of setting off a major crisis with Moscow. These are the facts of the hour.

According to De Gaulle's reasoning, these facts should lead the Atlantic Alliance to organize itself on the basis of three big, balanced political ensembles: the United States, Great Britain and its Commonwealth, and Continental Europe. These three big ensembles would cooperate as equal partners, notably in the nuclear field and would coordinate their action everywhere in the world.

To Open Bids on Highway Work

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The state Highway Department will open bids at 10 a.m. Wednesday on an estimated $7.5 million in road and bridge projects and then hear four delegations seeking action on other highway jobs.

The delegations and the projects they seek include:

Rep. Hayes C. McClerkin of Miller County on improvement of U.S. Highway 71 from the junction of Highway 134 north, in Miller County.

Sen. Joe Lee Anderson of Helena, on the addition of a county road to the state system. The road runs from the end of Highway 44 north of west Helena to Lexa in fraud convictions.

Poinsett Circuit Court requested that his 12-year term assessed there run concurrently with an 11-year state term assessed in Greene Circuit Court.

Edens is to begin serving the state terms soon. He is held temporarily in the Pulaski County Jail.

Smith said the Justice Department had made the decision to allow Edens to count his federal time along with the state terms.

Fire Set to a Negro Church

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP)—Fire Chief Joe Edwards said today a small fire was set at the St. James Negro church Sunday night.

He said a kerosene rag was placed in a bottle and ignited. The remains of the incendiary bomb were found on a window sill in the church.

The church has been a meeting place for Negro sit-in demonstrators. The church pastor, the Rev. Arthur A. Robinson, has been a spokesman for the demonstrators.

A passer by saw the small fire and called firemen. There was slight damage.

No one was in the church. Demonstrators were attending a meeting at another Negro church about a mile away.

Sit-in demonstrations at a downtown variety store lunch counter began Feb. 1. Fifteen students have been suspended from all-Negro Arkansas A&M College because they took part in the demonstrations.

Settlement Disliked by Collectors

Linkletter Show to Find an Audience

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Tax collectors shudder every time they read in the papers or hear on the air that the government settled a debt with a well-known personality for, say, 20 cents on the dollar.

From experience they know losers in past disputes with Uncle Sam will write letters demanding to know why this big shot got off for one-fifth when they had to pay something like one-half.

Angry taxpayers will stand up at meetings, denounce the government for compromising with wrongdoers and ask if honesty really pays.

Lawyers at the Internal Revenue Service insist there was no surrender. What really happened, they say, was that the government finally ascertained and accepted all it could expect if the case went through court.

"It is a false impression that we are giving away something and not getting all we are entitled to," says Rudy P. Hertzog, associate chief counsel at IRS.

"Who the taxpayer is, whether he is prominent or unknown, has absolutely nothing to do with it," puts in Leo Bardenheuer, assistant director of the appellate division.

Then why is there frequently such a difference between the amount the government asserts an individual owes in back taxes and penalties and the amount it eventually accepts?

Hertzog says its mainly because in this kind of dispute IRS is unable to obtain sufficient data to derive an accurate figure. Sometimes it may result from a court decision modifying the law. But primarily, Hertzog contends, it's because available records are incomplete and the taxpayer or his attorney is unwilling until the case reaches the court stage to make a full disclosure.

Two Washington attorneys who are always on the other side in tax contests find themselves generally supporting the government's case. One says it puts an "unfair slant" on the tax collector's job to complain that he settled for so much on the dollar.

Occasionally, this lawyer says, he has felt IRS entered some items in its bill "for trading purposes." He also expresses doubt the government suffers seriously from lack of information except in fraud cases.

The other attorney—both asked to remain anonymous—said most difficulties arise from agents in district offices, particularly for the little guy who is unaware he has rights of appeal. In this lawyer's opinion, "The government is much tougher on the big shot than on the little people."

"Part of the difficulty," Bardenheuer says, "is the general impression that we have already determined on the basis of full information how much an individual owes and take less than we had determined. In fact, we make a determination as to how much he may owe. What is determined in the settlement is how much he does owe."

Just this week the government settled an initial claim of about

NEW YORK (AP)—It took a couple of years, but NBC finally figured out how to convert the basic idea of CBS' "Candid Camera" into an audience participation show.

It is called "The Art Linkletter Show," and made its debut Monday night. It may very well find an audience among people who think practical jokes are a laugh riot.

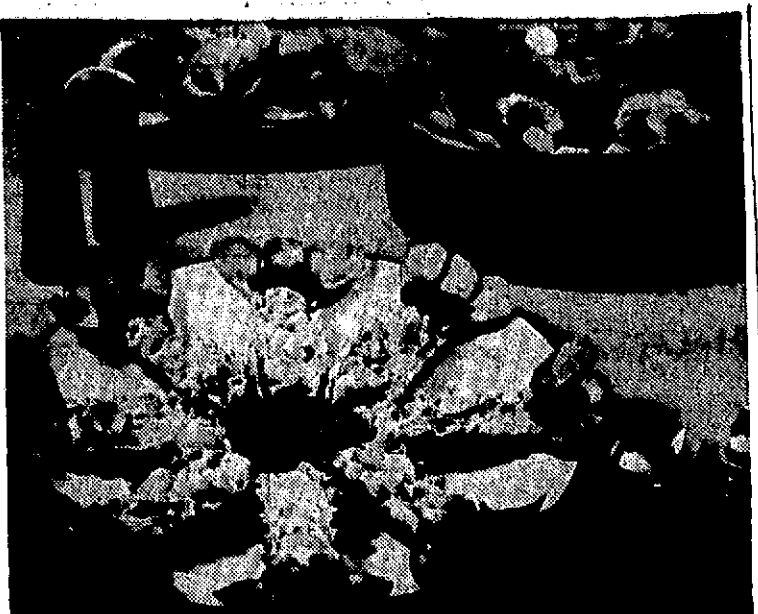

In one hit, Linkletter led the snickers over a filmed sequence in which an unsuspecting professional fashion model thought she was being hired to pose sharing an ice-cream soda with another character. The character turned out to be a chimpanzee.

The candid sequence was halted at the surprised expression on the girl's face when she saw the chimp. Then the audience participation—in this case the guest celebrity, Bobby Darin, plugging his latest movie—was asked to guess whether she would do it or refuse. That's the "audience participation" a. S. v. e. i. i. z. i. z. obvious amusement.

Joan Crawford was scheduled to appear on NBC's "Tonight Show" Monday night to receive an award and talk about "CARE." She notified the charitable organization three weeks ago that she would not be able to keep the date.

Somebody goofed, however, and NBC says that it did not learn about the cancellation until late last week, when "CARE" finally passed the word along. So a lot of fans were disappointed.

"Twilight Zone," after a few months in an hour-long format, will return to its original 30 min-

A New Way With Fish Sticks

It may be difficult to say "Fish Stick Toastwiches" all in one breath, but it will be ever so easy to make them . . . and even easier to eat them. For a meatless luncheon or supper menu we suggest Birds Eye Fish Sticks, rolled in slices of bread and baked to toasty crispness, served with a bowl of piping hot cream of tomato soup and perhaps a fresh green salad.

Fish Stick Toastwiches

1 package (8 ounces) frozen pre-cooked fish sticks
10 thin slices bread (white, whole wheat, or rye)
Melted butter
Relishes and seasonings*

Separate frozen fish sticks. Cut crusts from bread. For easier handling, roll bread with a rolling pin. Brush both sides of bread with melted butter; spread one side with relish. Place fish sticks on relish (diagonally across bread) and wrap bread around the fish, fastening corners with toothpicks. Place on a baking sheet in hot oven (425°F.) and heat thoroughly until fish sticks are crisp and bread is toasted—about 12 minutes. Serve plain or with tartare sauce; or serve topped with tomato, cheese, or egg sauce. Makes 5 servings.

* Use mustard, catsup, chili sauce, sandwich spread, India relish, pickle relish, horse radish, grated Cheddar cheese, or chopped sweet onion, or any combination of these or other condiments.

Conference Failed to Settle Issue

Race Rioting in Baltimore Involved 300

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's conference Monday night with congressional leaders on communism in Latin America apparently settled nothing. But it illustrated a determination, a paradox and an unpleasant future.

There is a general determination in this country to strangle communism in Cuba, if possible without getting into war with Russia, but certainly to prevent its spread from Cuba to other Latin American nations.

As part of the Western Hemisphere they are the United States' backyard. This country wants no hostile ideology like communism establishing itself so close to home, and for obvious reasons.

In time it could provide a Soviet military base as it did in Cuba—which would be the reverse of the American military bases on other continents around the Communist perimeter—and gradually subvert the southern continent.

One reason the American determination is so stern against permitting a Red foothold in Latin America is the fact that this country, because of its tremendous military power, has the ability to stop it.

After their meeting with Kennedy the congressional leaders were vague in answering newsmen's questions out the men's questions about the briefing they got. One Democrat said it was just a general intelligence roundup on Cuba.

Another said "things looked a little better." A Republican said he thought the President was just trying to pacify some of his Republican critics. If that's all it was, the dispute will go on.

But the paradox remains.

The United States is doing to communism what it doesn't want communism to do to the United States: It is in communism's backyard.

There are two vivid examples: Formosa and South Viet Nam.

The United States has troops in Viet Nam helping the people there fight Communist guerrillas. But South Viet Nam is in Asia and all Asia is Red China's backyard.

On the island of Formosa, which the Red Chinese claim as part of China, the United States is helping protect Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists from Red attack.

At the moment the Communist Chinese are not bombarding Formosa. And they are not taking a direct part in the Vietnamese fighting. Their reasons for abstinence in both cases are practical and obvious.

The history of the Catholic Church in this state dates back to DeSoto's expedition, when the Spanish priests made some effort to teach Christianity to the Indians.

CBS now plans to give "Route 66" another season on the highway—with or without George Maharis.

Maryland Speaker Quits Post

BALTIMORE (AP)—The speaker of Maryland's House of Delegates stepped down from his post today in the wake of a federal indictment charging him and five other persons with nine counts of mail fraud.

Democrat A. Gordon Boone of Baltimore County said he was merely taking a leave of absence as a speaker so he could devote more time to preparing a defense against the charges, which he called unfounded.

Boone is a former president of the National Conference of State Legislative Leaders.

Boone and five others were indicted Tuesday in connection with operation of Security Financial Insurance Corp., a firm they started in 1959 to insure savings and loan accounts.

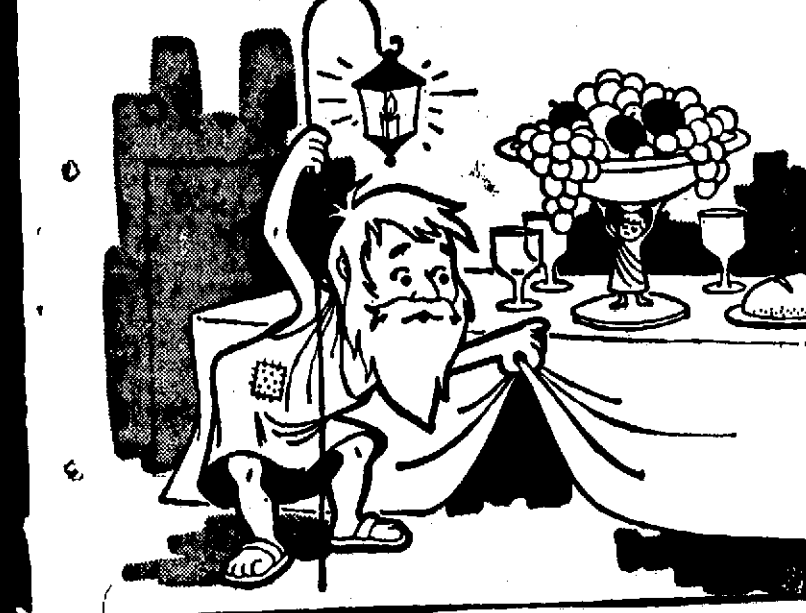

They were accused of fraudulently misrepresenting protection of accounts. The insurance firm is now in receivership, as are some of the savings and loan associations it represented.

Indicted with Boone were: D. Oran Mensik, 53, Chicago financier associated with five associations insured by Security Financial.

Mensik was freed in 1961 the end of an 18-week mail fraud trial in Baltimore when a jury could not agree. The U.S. Tax Court upheld an $821,000 tax ruling against Mensik last year.

Henry McGurran, 50, Chicago attorney. Boone said McGurran gave $450,000 toward incorporation of Security Financial, which went out of business last summer after a court ordered it into receivership and froze its funds.

Food Sense Not Nonsense

An Iron-ic Search

Diogenes, the legendary cynic who searched everywhere in Greece for an honest man, has a soul-mate in doctors and nutrition scientists looking for disease they can pinpoint to a shortage of nutrients in the food Americans eat. With one exception, the search is almost vain. The exception: anemia.

Doctors are voicing growing concern about the disturbing number of persons who have anemia caused by a shortage of America's nutrient, iron. Recommendations made for iron by America's top nutritionists in the National Research Council carry the smallest margin of safety of any of the nutrients . . . come closest to requirements. This is particularly true for rapidly-growing children and young women.

At a recent conference designed to take a searching look at America's nutrition, Dr. Willard Krehl from the State University of Iowa School of Medicine warned that iron-short anemia is so common many hospitals brand borderline cases as normal. "The iron balance sheet," he said, "while adequate for the adult male, is precarious indeed for females."

In searching for reasons behind the increasing number of persons with iron-short anemia, some nutritionists spot these:

- Grandpa's surrender to modern water supplies. Well water is an excellent source of iron.
- Grandma's trading in her old iron skillet for a gleaming, new model of stainless steel, aluminum, or glass.
- Dependence upon one food as the source of all nutrients.

Eating a variety of foods will help fill the iron breach and make nutritional disease ever harder to find. Among the best sources of iron are: Liver, beef, dry fruits and vegetables, beans, deep greens, potatoes, and enriched and whole grain bread and other cereal foods.
